Nadeen Payne

“Secondly, whenever I see a little kid with curly hair, I always make it a point to tell them that I love their hair and it’s so beautiful. I then end up chatting to their adults and more often than not, they mention that the child hates their hair. Being able to relate so much to that, I just really wanted to do this for all the curly babies. I want them to see themselves in the book and say ‘they look like me!’.”

For the past 10 years, Nadeen has worked as a massage therapist, gaining inspiration from working with massage therapists in her sporting career.

“I love helping people, I love the human body and I also love giving people a safe space. My massages are heavily influenced by how I like my treatment - which I believe helps me give my clients great results.”

At age 7, Nadeen started playing basketball and went on to gain a scholarship to the Australian Institute of Sport at just 16. She represented Australia in under 17, and under 19 at the junior world championships and 3X3 in France.

Nadeen then started playing professional basketball and went on to have a career spanning 12 years, accumulating over 250 games in the Women’s National Basketball League, and also earning her Life Membership.

“I would tell any young player willing to listen and learn, is to just be a sponge. Absorb everything you can and don’t compare yourself to other people, stay in your lane and focus on you!”

A woman of many talents, Nadeen is probably best known for her basketball career, but she has recently set her sights on making a difference by publishing a children’s book that celebrates curly hair.

Released last year, ‘Kenzie and Her Curls’ tells the story of a young girl’s journey of hating her curly hair, to absolutely loving how unique and different it makes her.

“I really wanted to write a book for a few reasons. Firstly, I wish I had something like this when I was younger. There was no representation of curly hair in children’s books and if I saw curly hair anywhere it would always be referred to as being messy, frizzy, or untidy which can impact you quite negatively.

Andrew Carby

Carby's Bakehouse Celebrates 25 Years

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

A popular Wavell Heights bakery has reached a milestone anniversary. Last month, Carby's Bakehouse on Hamilton Road celebrated 25 years of baking delicious pies, pastries, bread and cakes for locals and visitors.

Owner and operator Andrew Carby said the secret to the success of the business was employing good staff and offering consistent quality of products.

"Also bringing out different things and giving (customers) a bit of variety," Andrew said. "Stick to your basic eight out of ten, and vary those other two. I'm aware there are fancier places around but we feed the masses and we aren't overpriced, we are reasonable."

Andrew, who has been working as a baker for 43 years, opened the bakery on 6 March, 1998.

"I've worked for enough people to see it was worth having a go and plucked up enough courage," Andrew said.

"I remember the existing shop, which included a doctor's surgery, newsagent and TAB, which have disappeared over the years. And also remember the kids coming in with their parents and now they are coming as parents. I also remember we had a good response – pretty well instantly – at the shop."

All of Andrew's children have spent time working in the shop and his son Ryan, 25, has been working there for the past seven or eight years.

"He's learning what he can for the future," Andrew said. "I don't know how many kids we would've employed over the time but it'd have to be well over 100 kids. It is good to see one who is a radiographer now, and one is a doctor."

Carby's milestone is even more important considering the challenges encountered by small businesses during the COVID-19 outbreak.

"Through COVID all customers were very respectful when in the shop and obeyed the rules we were enforced to apply," Andrew said.

To mark the occasion on 6 March, the bakery offered each customer a free birthday cupcake. Customers were also given stubby coolers and bottle openers and had the opportunity to win a gift voucher.

"We are very proud of the achievements over the years and look forward to many more years to come," Andrew said. "We thank all of our loyal customers and those who stopped in to give our treats a try."

HISTORY CHERMSIDE

George Marchant

THE HISTORY OF MARCHANT PARK

The land that is today known as Marchant Park, was first bought by George Marchant in 1899, a wealthy soft drink producer and philanthropist who was to use the paddock for his company's horses.

Marchant, the son of a builder and a hotel manager, was born in Kent, England. He boarded the Ramsey on June 9, 1874, and with just a few shillings he arrived in Brisbane. He was eventually employed as a station hand and gardener in the outback, and when he returned to Brisbane, he worked as a carter for an aerated waters firm.

After putting in a lot of serious effort, George went on to own soft drink factories all over Australia and was the owner of the world's only bottling machine patent.

George was a generous man who supported numerous organisations, notably the Wheller Gardens Settlement aged care home, by contributing tens of thousands of pounds. Along with his wife, Mary Jane Dwyer, Marchant also supported the New Jerusalem Church in Ann Street.

Following the end of the war, George offered the Kedron Shire Council the use of his field as a park. There were a few requirements to this agreement, however once they were fulfilled, Marchant Park was transformed into a public place. The Australian Light Horse Regiment and the artillery and machine gun battalions of the Australian Imperial Force trained there during World War One.

Marchant Park served as a part of the Chermiside Army Camp, which was created across Ellison Road (in Sparkes' Paddock) on October 7, 1940, during World War Two. Marchant Park was designated as "Camp Area J" and was only to be utilised for practise because it was a public area with crucial cricket amenities.

After receiving the paddock to make way for a public space, Kedron Shire Council named it Marchant Park. To honour George Marchant, a rectangular monolith of quarry-faced granite was erected in the small garden close to the memorial gate entrance on Murphy Road.

DRAGON CELEBRATES 50 YEARS WITH ANNIVERSARY CONCERT

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

It's time to reminisce about our 'young years' because Dragon is heading on tour to mark 50 years of making some of the biggest hits in rock history.

Don't miss the iconic New Zealand band when they perform all of their best loved songs at the 'Dragon 50' concert on Thursday 4 May, at The Lounge in Nundah.

Bass player and founding member of the band, Todd Hunter encouraged the audience to come to a Dragon 50 show and sing their way through a host of golden songs.

"This is not only a celebration of the band's existence, it's a celebration of you and your relationship with the Dragon songs," Todd said. "Each song is a recognition bomb of what was happening to you the first time you heard it on the radio or Countdown and is branded indelibly into your memory.

"Witnessing a Dragon show with the current band triggers a powerful emotional response that can only be resolved by losing oneself in the moment with people who were, until moments ago, complete strangers."

Dragon formed in Auckland in 1972 but relocated to Sydney in 1975. They rose to fame with chart-toppers like April Sun in Cuba, Still in Love with You and Are You Old Enough when the band was fronted by Todd's brother, Marc Hunter.

Over time, the line-up has changed and the band has broken up and reformed, but they have continued to deliver track after rocking track. In 2006, Todd reformed the band with vocalist and guitarist, Mark Williams, guitarist Bruce Reid and drummer, Pete Drummond.

Dragon was inducted into the Australian Recording Industry Association (ARIA) Hall of Fame in 2008 and the New Zealand Music Hall of Fame in 2011.

Since the 2006 reformation they've played 893 shows, and this year will be adding even more live and loud performances to the impressive tally.

Todd said the Dragon 50 audience could expect to hear "songs like Sunshine, This Time, Get That Jive, Still In Love with You, April Sun in Cuba, Are You Old Enough, Dreams of Ordinary Men, Speak No Evil, Rain, Young Years, Celebration and many more."

Tickets start at $45 (including booking fees). To book go to tickets.oztix.com.au

MURDER ON THE MENU

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Calling all amateur sleuths! There's been a 'murder' at the Aspley Hornets Football Club and it's up to you to find out whodunit.

Enjoy a night of intrigue and mystery when Murder at the Hornets takes place on Saturday, 20 May, hosted by Wild Cherry Events.

Carolyn Rothwell, owner of Wild Cherry Events, said the murder mystery events were fully interactive, with each guest receiving a character to play on the evening.

"Guests are presented with various objectives they need to achieve throughout the night by talking to other characters, asking questions, bribing each other with money for information and looking through evidence presented to them," Carolyn said.

"They are given information relevant to their characters and presented with a list of questions to ask other characters. The host presents evidence to guests, which they can spend time reading to establish who the murderer was."

Murder at the Hornets is set in the 1920s at The Juice Joint, a swanky speakeasy run by Rosie Marie.

To celebrate the success of the exclusive nightspot, Rosie is planning an unforgettable party. However, one of the names on the guest list is also on someone's hit list.

There are plenty of suspects to consider, from major mobsters to the swanky singer with her sights set on Hollywood, the cigarette girl with a sizzling temper to the crooked police chief with nothing to lose. Perhaps the culprit is the blacklisted bootlegger who'd do anything to increase their sales, or the director with one shot at making history?

Carolyn said one of the guests will be the murderer and another will be the victim, but neither of them will know until that evening.

"The victim will assume a second role so they can continue to play throughout the night," she said. "The hosts also play in character and will ensure that the evening runs smoothly."

Guests will enjoy a two-course dinner and receive a cocktail on arrival. Attendees are encouraged to frock up in their best Gatsby dress or dapper suit, adorned with feather boas and top hats.

"People love getting into character and playing a role," Carolyn said. "Intrigue, mystery, murder, evidence, sleuthing, fun – that's what the night is about."

Ney Ney Brings Back the Old School R&B Vibes

Remember the name Ney Ney because you'll be hearing a lot more from this rising star.

Ney Ney is a proud Kuku-Yalanji man from Far North Queensland, currently residing locally, who is a finalist in The QUBE Effect, a music program run by Brisbane City Council that provides development opportunities for young artists.

Describing himself as an "old school R&B artist", Ney Ney said his music was "soulful R&B with a little taste of New Jack swing".

"I've been raised from a musical family all my life but started taking it seriously in 2020, and released a video clip which got 22,000 views and progressed further with my music," he said.

"My audience inspires me to do music. Hearing my audience sing my song back to me is a blessing and a half, so mainly it's all the love and support I get from everyone that loves my music."

Each of the 23 finalists were given the opportunity to be mentored by industry experts and make a professional music video. Last month, Brisbane residents were asked to vote for the video they wanted to see win the People's Choice Award, including Ney Ney's track, Vibin.

He said the song was influenced by American singer/songwriter, Tevin Campbell. "Really the song is all about trying to serenade a dream girl and to make her feel that love and energy that I got," he said. "And in every song I have told stories that are true and really have happened to me, so I go on what has happened in my life. I feel like my music needs to come from the heart and to speak my truth in life."

The QUBE Effect winners will be announced at an awards ceremony at The Triffid in Newstead on Tuesday, 23 May.

Ney Ney said he felt overwhelmed and blessed to be a finalist. "It gives me the courage to do music even more and to see what I can pull out of my pocket when it comes to music," he said.

His future goals include taking his music internationally. "But I'm happy to be just popular around Australia," he said. "That's how I know I made it and also being well known in my Aboriginal communities. They're definitely my loyal fans and I owe them heaps for showing that love for me."

Worldly Women events are possible because of the collaboration of many organisations, including MA, BCC, Queensland Police Service (QPS), Zillmere Community Centre, Police Citizens Youth Club (PCYC), Uniting Care, Jabiru, and the Queensland Program of Assistance to Survivors of Trauma and Torture (QPASTT).

What's wonderful about these events is that women can come together, and through fun games and activities, encourage conversations. They learn from each other while sharing stories, eating and dancing. There are activities for their kids too. This space helps grow awareness while developing lasting friendships.

"For the past five years, since being in the role of Crime Prevention and Community Engagement, this remains one of my favourite community events to attend and be involved in. The diversity of women that attend, the safe and inclusive environment, the relaxed 'feel' of the event and of course, the delicious food and dancing!" said

Senior Constable Sergeant Jodie Murray, QPS.

So what impact do Worldly Women events have on women's lives?

Taken from Reflections of Worldly Women, "A young international student from China said after her first event, this was the first time she felt truly welcome in all her years in Brisbane."

Another "Australian-born woman said she found these events provided an opportunity to talk with women from other cultures and so better understand their stories."

Worldly Women invites women of all cultures and backgrounds. The May event for 2023's Worldly Women honours Mother's Day.

For more information about this and future events, contact Colleen on 0410 432 643.

Worldly Women Events create strong connections

STORY PANAYIOTA

Imagine one woman's idea having the power to create a ten-year long success story.

Grace Samuel of Multicultural Australia (MA) is just such a woman. In 2014, she approached the Brisbane City Council (BCC) to create events to support women. This idea came to fruition and that very same year produced two events. Ten years later, they're up to four events a year and still going strong.

"Being the person who initiated this gathering makes me feel happy for enabling social connections and minimising social isolation," said Grace.

BLOOMS, BRUNCH, BEVERAGES & MORE AT THE TRELIS

Potter among the plants with a coffee in hand at a new family-run nursery. Marni and David Robertshaw opened The Trellis late last year, located at the former Eden Gardens centre on Gympie Road, Carseldine - and with a café, classes, live music, and plants for miles, there is something for everyone to enjoy.

Owner and creative director, Marni said they were keen to find a space on the northside with the same environment and vibe as their other garden centre, The Nurso in Chandler, giving it a new name that resonated with the site.

"The Trellis signifies the front signage on the corner of Gympie and Beams Roads that will one day be covered in vines like a trellis," Marni said. "It is also representative of the idea of a place that community springs from, everything attached and interworking. We want to be a place where community comes to meet and where they want to spend their special occasions."

Green thumbs will enjoy exploring the indoor plant lane, landscaping and outdoor plant hub, and expansive range of pots.

"With four hectares of nursery in Chandler and half that again at Carseldine we have any plant that you could possibly be after and if not, we can get it or grow it for you," Marni said.

The café menu includes bagels, tartines, burgers and brunch options, Mocopan coffee, cold drinks, tap beers from Brewdog, and wines from Sirromet and Tamburlaine.

Dave and Marni

A play space with picnic tables provides a place for families to relax.

"You can sit by the water and have a morning tea or down in the garden while the kids ride trikes around the circular track," Marni said.

Classes include making terrariums using a revolving 'trainarium'. The Trellis also hosts kid's parties, weddings, engagements, birthdays, hens and bucks parties. A special Mother's Day event will take place from 1-3pm on Sunday, 14 May.

"We also have live music every Saturday and Sunday and May will be the last of our 10am-1pm music slots before our winter times are announced for June, so it's a great opportunity to come down for brunch and hear live music amongst a garden setting," Marni said. "Come in, see what we're doing and experience the way we do nursery." For more information go to www.thetrellis.au or follow The Trellis on Facebook.

As the weather starts to cool down things are heating up in the Marchant Ward.

Many exciting updates are happening, and I am looking forward to the annual Lanham May Fair on Saturday 6 May from 12.30pm to 5.30pm.

WITH CR FIONA HAMMOND

Don't forget the family movie (Paddington 2) starts at 6pm at the Grange Bowls Club with food trucks rolling in to make your dinner a breeze! I hope to see you there!

While you are in the area check out the new handball courts at Lanham Park.

The idea of this handball court came from some local teenagers, who contacted me and made the request.

I hope you all enjoy the new facilities when they are finished and ready. The design of this area also provides seating and an area for youths to chill and enjoy the outdoors.

The Kedron Brook Bikeway flood recovery project is progressing with the Wolverhampton Bridge now complete, connecting this much used area. Also, the Uxbridge footpath is now complete and ready for your next stroll or bike ride.

As part of the Lord Mayor's Sun-Safe Playgrounds, Broula Park shade cover is scheduled for commencement on 18 April, weather conditions permitting.

As Queensland is the sun cancer capital of the world this initiative is a big step to protecting our kids as they enjoy our playgrounds.

Volunteers at the Repair Cafe Stafford

Reduce, Reuse & Recycle at Repair Cafe

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Did you know there's a place where you can give your broken items a second lease on life? The Repair Café is a quarterly workshop run by The Community Place (TCP) at Stafford, where expert volunteers help you fix your items, keeping them out of landfill.

Community engagement worker, Rebecca Hainsworth said the Repair Café was one of a number of programmes run by TCP that provided opportunities to meet new people.

"Because of its international goal to create connections within communities by sharing skills, knowledge and the good old cuppa tea, the project was a natural fit with the work TCP does," Rebecca said.

"Our fixers are very generous with their knowledge and talk people through what needs to be or is being done, so people gain knowledge. It is a great chance to have a cuppa and a chat with other people who are waiting to have their items looked at, so it is wonderful for building connections within the community.

"Each of the repair stations has a coloured bell they ring when they have fixed an item and the whole hall gives a cheer. It really creates a party atmosphere!"

Rebecca said community member Barbara brought in a straw hat that had become brittle with age.

"After looking at it closely, and lots of ideas being bandied about, Barbara agreed with the recommendation to cut off the straw crown and replace it with a fabric one sewn onto the existing brim," Rebecca said. "Our sewist, Tahnee, used the remnants of the straw crown to make a flower to decorate the new hat, further reducing what went to landfill."

The next workshop is on Saturday, 20 May. People can bring in any items (other than electrical items), as long as they can be easily carried.

The Repair Cafe are seeking more volunteer fixers, including an electrician and someone who can sharpen knives and garden tools, as well as volunteers to help on the reception desk, with tea and coffee, and with lifting and shifting.

Repair Café is free to attend but donations are appreciated. To book a timeslot go to www.thecommunityplace.com.au or call 3857 1152. Visit The Community Place on Facebook for more information about the fixers who will be at this month's workshop.

HUNT FOR A BARGAIN AT NEWLY RELOCATED MARKETS

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

A popular, long-standing Sunday market has relocated to Chermside. The Markets at Kedron-Wavell, formerly the Ferry Grove Markets, moved to its new site in the car park at the Kedron-Wavell Services Club last month.

Owner Colin Smith said the markets changed location after they were no longer able to continue operating in the Ferry Grove Station car park on Samford Road.

“Queensland Rail sent me a letter last year stating that I had to close down the markets in September 2022 – this was due to the new construction work being done in the car park, and there was no future for the market at the station,” Colin said.

“Due to the community uproar of this news, Mark Furner MP for Ferry Grove negotiated with Queensland Rail for the market to remain at the station for the future. Unfortunately, the only location they could offer to us was the top floor of the multi-storey car park being built.

This was not suitable due to high winds and limited vehicle access – no trucks, trailers, and cars with roof racks, which many of my stallholders use. After many discussions with the stallholders, there was great concern over the vehicle access to the roof level.”

No alternative location could be found in the Ferry Grove area and a decision was made to relocate to the new site at Kedron-Wavell Services Club.

“I felt lucky to find such a great location at short notice,” Colin said.

For more than 40 years, the markets have become well-known for being a traditional market and a large social event for the community each Sunday, offering fruit and vegetables, clothing, plants, bric-a-brac and more.

Colin said the majority of his regular stallholders had verbally advised him they would join him at the new location and he had also received quite a few enquiries from stallholders in different suburbs.

He encouraged more stallholders to apply and hoped many members of the community would visit the markets at the new site.

“It’s a great location, come down and check us out,” he said. “We are still a traditional market. You never know what you are going to find.”

For more information contact Colin on 0418 721 751.

A NEW YORK STATE OF MIND IN CARSELDINE

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY PHOTOS BRUCE REDMAN

A delicious slice of New York can be found on the menu at 5 Boroughs and now there's even more on offer to tempt your tastebuds.

The Carseldine Central restaurant has been a popular choice for lunch and dinner since it opened at the end of 2021 and co-founders Todd and Marisa Clayton recently launched a new breakfast menu.

Marisa said families could sit back, relax and enjoy a delicious breakfast without any hassle.

"From classic bacon and eggs to fluffy pancakes and creamy avocado toast, there'll be something for everyone to enjoy," Marisa said. "Whether you're a sweet or savoury fan, you'll find your perfect breakfast match at 5 Boroughs."

The pair have been bringing their wealth of knowledge of food retail and franchising to the 5 Boroughs brand since 2015. The restaurants have become well-known for hand crafted burgers, New York style sandwiches, wings, tacos, waffle fries, steaks and pork ribs. There are now seven venues across South East Queensland, including Carseldine Central.

"5 Boroughs aims to provide customers with a taste of authentic New York inspired cuisine in a welcoming and inclusive environment," Marisa said.

"Our burger menu definitely takes home the 'most popular trophy' with our customers. Our classic 5B Bacon and Cheese is an absolute must-try – Angus beef, smoked bacon, US cheddar, buttercrunch lettuce, tomato, pickles, red onion, house sauce and Bourbon BBQ sauce.

"Our King of Queens is also a bucket list burger – southern fried chicken breast, smoked bacon, US cheddar, buttercrunch lettuce, gripped pineapple, mayo and Bourbon BBQ sauce, skewered with onion rings."

Other popular choices include the blackened chicken salad, and tacos with grilled fish or chicken.

Each restaurant has a bar with local and international craft beers on tap, such as Brooklyn Lager. Also on offer are cocktails, bottomless housemade lemonade and iced tea, regionally selected wines and Espresso Martinis. Happy hour runs from 4-6pm every day.

Marisa said the Carseldine Central restaurant offered a socially casual dining option outside of pubs, RSLs, clubs and fast food.

"We attract families and savvy singles looking for discerning bar offerings, snacks or the weekly night out – a cool place to hang," she said. "The restaurant seats over 100 guests and is great for any type of function."

"A member of the public actually reached out after seeing our collaboration with the Queensland Vegan Markets and wanted something similar for Coeliacs and people who eat gluten-free," she said.

"We have some great vendors already secured for the gluten-free markets including Benz on Miller with their mouth-watering gluten-free burgers, Flame and Dough Woodfired Pizzas (these guys were so popular they sold out last time!), Bayside Brownie Company which will have lots of gluten-free baked goodies, SoCal tacos with their delicious tacos, and much more!"

Kayla said at their last event many of their non-gluten-free staff members tasted the food on offer and said it was delicious.

"We even had the pizza food truck back for our Christmas market and nobody could tell they were gluten-free," she said.

GLUTEN FREE FOODIES REJOICE!

STORY PIPER ZUINO

If you or someone you know is gluten-free or celiac then you know the struggle of being "gluten-ed".

VEND has put an end to this problem and has created a Gluten Free Market that has been so successful they are bringing it back again this month with the Market taking place over the whole weekend.

VEND Retail Manager and Event Coordinator Kayla Brown said the Gluten Free Festival is an extension of their Gluten Free Market and due to high levels of popularity they decided to extend it over the weekend.

"This market is so good for coeliacs as they don't have to worry about cross contamination or getting mild-seriously unwell from eating something that contains gluten."

"Our previous market left customers relieved, confident, and satisfied by the food at the gluten-free markets. We will have a range of food to take home, and some food to eat on the day."

While you are there pop inside and explore the rest of the VEND Marketplace which has over 130 small and local businesses selling everything from plants to crafts.

"We are also a dog-friendly venue so you can bring your pooch along as well. It will be a great day out and we can't wait to see the community involvement in this great event," Kayla said.

BUZZWORTHY BUSINESS AWARDED COUNCIL GRANT

A Zillmere-based small business owner has turned her passion for the environment into a buzzing beekeeping organisation with a focus on conservation.

Sarah Hamilton, a Meliponist (aka stingless beekeeper), founded Bee Yourself in 2013 and this year was given the opportunity to share in a pool of $250,000 as part of Brisbane City Council's Lord Mayor's Women in Business Grant.

She said Bee Yourself offered beekeeping, consulting and educational services, as well as rescues and removals and splitting services.

"I also sell established hives and all stingless bee related accessories," Sarah said. "Having started out my working life as a horticulturist and hosting native bees for years, it seemed a natural progression to start keeping my own hives and I haven't looked back since."

She said keeping native bees was a safe, enjoyable and low maintenance hobby that everyone could take up to help reverse the decline of pollinators through conservation.

"Keeping native bees is being practised throughout the country, not only as a safe and fun educational tool with a wide variety of learning outcomes, but also as a therapy for people who are experiencing mental, emotional or physical difficulties," she said.

Sarah's clientele includes corporate clients who want to improve their contribution to environmental stability, farmers and crop pollinators who require bees for successful harvest, and community groups who use hives to liven their physical space and to allow their own clients to connect more deeply with nature and Indigenous culture.

"Through building connection and communication with my customers and community, I am continually striving to improve my products and service to ensure that Bee Yourself remains recognised as a relevant and high quality local business," she said.

Sarah said she was "stoked" when she found out she was a recipient of the Lord Mayor's Women in Business Grant and that she intended to use the funds on her business website.

"To have a functioning, informative website will allow me to direct people to my website, which will save me so much time on a daily basis," she said. "This will then allow me to focus on other areas of my business that need my attention, such as being out in the field working the bees."

For more information go to www.beeyourself.com.au or follow Bee Yourself on Facebook.

CHERMSIDE BOWLS CLUB'S DIAMOND JUBILEE

STORY PIPER ZUINO

The Chermside Bowls Club is celebrating community and sportsmanship in their 75th year of operation from humble beginnings in an empty paddock to the heart of the Chermside community.

To celebrate their 75th anniversary the club is reminiscing on the success of the establishment by hosting a range of special events throughout the year for the whole community to be involved in.

Chermside Bowls Club Chairman of the Board Tony Bolf said the club is a staple for the community, providing a welcoming atmosphere for members and visitors.

“What sets our club apart is our commitment to inclusivity and community. Since the early days, we have operated under a set of values that emphasise the importance of treating all members and visitors like family,” he said.

The club has a rich history in the Chermside community continuing to make improvements and develop into the space it is today.

“Over the last 75 years, we have seen some major events, including the decision in the early 1960s to embark on a three-stage plan to expand the club, which saw the addition of a lounge bar, a modern dining area, a dance floor, and a third green,” Tony said.

Tony said the 75th anniversary of the club is all about celebrating the importance of inclusivity and community, the club has always aimed to treat members and visitors like family to create a welcoming atmosphere for everyone.

“We are kicking off the festivities with a members-only special anniversary dinner dance in May, featuring live music and a formal dinner to celebrate our past.”

“Following that, we are hosting a major two-day bowls tournament on 27 and 28 May, inviting members from other clubs to participate and celebrate our present. We are also inviting our community to come and enjoy open bowls every Sunday to celebrate our future,” he said.

The Chermside Bowls Club thanks their volunteers, committees and members for their dedication to creating a club that is central to the Chermside community.

“So, we invite you to come and celebrate with us, to share in our past, present, and future. Whether you’re a long-time member, a first-time visitor, or a business looking to support a local institution, there’s a place for you at Chermside Bowls Club,” Tony said.

Sweet Bobby Podcast Review

STORY NICK ALLFORD

Imagine if the love of your life wasn't real. Worse than that, what if someone had not only created an entirely fake persona but strung you along for 10 long years?

This is known as 'Catfishing' where a scammer creates an identity to trap people into a relationship based on a lie. The purpose is usually to exploit their victims for money or sex, but this case is far more bizarre. If this story was made into a film, you wouldn't believe it.

The podcast was created by investigative journalist Alexi Mostrous who decided to help catfish victim Kirat Simran uncover who she'd been communicating with for all these years and ultimately why.

Now your assumption might be, 'I'd never fall for that'. You may want to reconsider when you listen to the lengths that the perpetrator was willing to go to. Developing a whole network of around 40 fake people to corroborate their story and manipulate Kirat.

The bizarre legal battle that follows is an eye opener. If no money was taken, no physical harm caused, then is there a case for the police.

When you find out who's behind wasting a decade of her life you may reconsider if you even need social media anymore. Manipulation on an epic scale.

Available wherever you find your podcasts.

LOCAL BIKE NIGHT IN BANYO FOCUSES ON ROAD SAFETY

STORY SGT JODIE MURRAY

Last month, the North Brisbane Crime Prevention team joined the Motorcycle Rider Training Australia (MRTA) and numerous motorbike enthusiasts for the first ever 'Bike Night' event, promoting road safety.

Hosted by the Banyo branch, community members were invited to come along and enjoy food vans, "show and shine" displays, as well as plenty of activities for kids and families.

It was a great opportunity for the Queensland Police Service to engage with motorbike enthusiasts about how to keep themselves safe on the roads.

Less than four months into the year, Queensland has already recorded 18 motorcyclist fatalities on the state's roads, marking more than double the number of motorbike-related road deaths than any other state or territory in Australia so far this year.

Whether you are new to riding, a regular rider or thinking of returning to ride, the Queensland Motorcycle Riders' Guide is a comprehensive one-stop reference handbook for all motorcycle riders.

It covers a range of topics, including licensing and registration, road rules, protective gear, safe riding techniques, how to cope with hazards, motorcycle maintenance, modifications, offences and current penalties.

Road safety is everyone's responsibility. We are committed to reducing the number of deaths on Queensland roads, but we can't do that without your help.

Organic Gardening in May

STORY SALLY EBERHARDT

Autumn is a favourite time of year for many Bayside gardeners - and it's no wonder with such perfect outdoor weather. The fruits of your earlier labour are now abundant with pumpkins, tomatoes, cucumbers, and many other vegetables ripe for the picking.

The second Sunday in May is Mother's Day - time to honour our Mums with a thoughtful gift. There are plenty of organic options to delight Mum and look after the planet. Have a look at native bee and insect hotels, compost bins, worm castles, micro-greens growing kits, collection of heirloom seeds and organic botanical skincare and fragrance lines. Pot some herbs or make some jam or chutney from your own garden for a personal touch.

Many Mums adore flowers, so rather than a cut-flower arrangement with a limited life, consider gifting her a beautiful potted flowering plant from a reputable gardening centre. Buy a plant in bud so Mum can enjoy watching the blooms emerge.

The falling temperatures of May are ideal for sowing a wide range of temperate and cool climate vegetables. Nurture seeds or seedlings now for a tasty winter harvest.

What to plant now – beetroot, silverbeet, cabbages, broccoli, onion family, peas, lettuce, carrots and turnips.

BRAD'S BUSINESS TIPS

How to get more referrals for your business

Step 1. Whenever you have a new lead or customer, say the following...

"Most people find out about us through our existing clients, just wondering who referred you to us?"

WITH BRAD FLYNN

This positions straight up with our new prospect or client, that we are mostly a referral-based business.

Step 2. Ask their permission to ask for referrals once they are a quality client. We use the following script in our initial conversations once someone becomes a client/customer.

"If after working with us and you are super happy with the results you are getting, is it OK if we ask you if you know anyone you could refer us to who you think we could help?"

Again, this is just reminding them that we are a referral-based business, and we would like their permission to help someone they know who could really use our help.

Step 3. Ask for referrals by saying...

"Just curiously, do you know anyone who is like you guys (who we love working with by the way), who could use our help? If you are happy to introduce us, that would be awesome, but if not, that is totally OK. We can reach out to them anonymously if you like."

If you have been doing a great job in helping these clients, they will be more than happy to connect you to those they know (they probably will already have done so), otherwise, you let them off the hook, by reaching out anonymously.

LIVING WITH CHUCKY - MOVIE REVIEW

STORY NICK ALFORD

What if you grew up with a killer doll. For writer and director Kyra Elise Gardner that's exactly what she did.

Her father was the makeup artist and head puppeteer who literally helped bring a killer doll named Chucky to life.

The titular Chucky has been starring in his own film franchise for over 30 years so Kyra was curious to see how her Dad has been spending his time.

Which led her to create this documentary and was also a great excuse to meet the cast and crew involved in the franchise. Like any good documentary it has a purpose.

Kyra has grown up hearing about the crew but has never had a chance to meet them. So, she set out to interview all of the key contributors to find out why Chucky means so much to them. Including the film's creators, crew and stars.

Initially the film brings you up to speed on the premise of the franchise and then takes you on a blow-by-blow journey through each film. Even though there are massive diminishing returns with the Chucky sequels, I'm always fascinated with how bad films are created. It helps you understand the decisions people made and what they were hoping to achieve.

These films have been surrounded with some controversy which I would have liked to see explored more but I can understand the reason for leaving some elements out due to their sensitive nature and the fun tone of the film.

You don't necessarily need to be a Horror aficionado to enjoy this doco, although it would definitely help as Horror nuts will lap up all of the backstage secrets and on set stories.

If you have an interest in the filmmaking process it offers great insights into the techniques and skills used. Although be warned, if you're more on the squeamish side, there are moments of blood and gore that could be a bit too much for the more discerning viewer.

On the whole this is a solid documentary exploring people's fascination and love for the horror genre, in particular, a little doll named Chucky.

Available on all major Digital platforms including Apple iTunes & Google Play in Australia from April 26th.
